Objective of the program

Infringement refers to to unauthorised use of protected information without the knowledge of the patent holder. This can affect all the categories of works that are covered in the patent law. Pharmaceutical industry is very much protected by patent Laws and IPRs. There are four categories of infringement options in pharma industry, which are very clearly described in Patent Law and so care should be taken to clearly mention under which category the given fresh application valid.

Topics Covered

Infringement Law

Four categories of Infringement

Patent Rights

IPRs

Outcome of the Programme:

This workshop helped students to gain knowledge about infringement law and the beginning of its existence in US. Students also get to know about different types of paragraphs in infringement law, under which this law helps in getting new patent rights and the significance of this law in pharmacy field. Students also got to know about Hatch Waxmann Act. In total 41 students attended the workshop.

Objective of the program

Patent Rights are exclusive rights given to the patent holder protecting his/her invention in the borders of a particular country where the patent is applied. Internationally there are no common laws. But UN has Laws to protect the rights of the inventor by giving a chance to the holder for applying in multiple countries at the same time, wherever the patent holder desires to apply. This gives a chance to the patent holder to protect his rights internationally.

Topics Covered
