Report Form on "EXPERIMENTAL PHARMACOLOGY".

NRI College of pharmacy has conducted this session for third-year students to enhance their experimental view on pharmacology. This software has been used for medical, pharmacy, and medical laboratory technology students in the study of Analgesic Activity which helps in the "Tail Flick Apparatus", "Hot Plate method", Writing Test method, etc.,

These programs can be used to demonstrate the effect of drugs on the different animal systems.

The welcome speech was given by our Principal Y.A. Chowdary, about the handling of software and usefulness of this experimental software without animal. This software was used in identifying the effects of experimental Studies on Antihistamine drugs, Anti Allergic drugs by mast cells method with the help of a "histamine Chamber". The software is also used for muscle relaxant activity with "Rota Rod Apparatus", CNS depressants & Stimulants using "Acto-photometer", Anti-Convulsant by "Electro-Convulsimeter"

This session helped them to understand the M.O.A of drugs and their effects on organs by using the software. Students also raised questions about how to download the free version of this software and the options available for saving the generated results.

Overall session was successful and students found it useful.

The main aspect of conducting this session for third year students is to enhance their experimental knowledge on the subject of Pharmacology. The Institution has taken a step forward towards students to encourage them in handling the software for their future prospective. This is the Computer based learning software containing various programs which stimulates animal experiments in pharmacology. These programs can be used to demonstrate effect of drugs on different animal system.

The welcome speech was given by our Principal Y.A.Chowdary, about handling of software and usefulness of this experimental software without animal handling, this was continued with P. Kanchana for 2 days session.

This software was used in Identifying the effects of various drugs on rabbits eye with drugs such as Epinephrine, Atropine, Ephedrine, Physo-stigmine and Lignocaine etc., and these were related theoretically in the third year pharmacology so both were related and explained well for the students. Open Feedback was asked and students was so satisfied in this session.

This session helped them to understand the M.O.A of drugs and their effects on organs by using software. Students also raised question about how to download free version of this software and options available for saving the generated results.

Overall session was successful and students found it useful.

Report Form on "EXPERIMENTAL PHARMACOLOGY"

NRI College of pharmacy has conducted this session for third-year students to enhance their experimental view on pharmacology. This software has been used for medical, pharmacy, and medical laboratory technology students in the study of Analgesic Activity which helps in the "Tail Flick Apparatus", "Hot Plate method", Writing Test method, etc.,

These programs can be used to demonstrate the effect of drugs on the different animal systems.

The welcome speech was given by our Principal Y.A.Chowdary, about the handling of software and usefulness of this experimental software without animal handling; this was continued with P. Kanchana for 2 days session.

This software was used in identifying the effects of experimental Studies on Antihistamine drugs, Anti Allergic drugs by mast cells method with the help of a "histamine Chamber". The software is also used for muscle relaxant activity with "Rota Rod Apparatus", CNS depressants & Stimulants using "Acto-photometer", Anti-Convulsant by "Electro-Convulsimeter"

This session helped them to understand the M.O.A of drugs and their effects on organs by using the software. Students also raised questions about how to download the free version of this software and the options available for saving the generated results.

Overall session was successful and students found it useful.
